BFM E-Newsletter: Our e-newsletter goes out weekly during the season promoting what will be at the markets that week and bi-weekly through the off-season. We list:

- Exciting new products
- What's fresh
- New and returning vendors
- Upcoming events

We source information from what we hear from you, your website, what we see on your social media, or what was at the market. If you have something you want to feature, we're happy to include it the best way we can. Email us your suggestions to fresh@bellevuefarmersmarket.org

Build up your social network.

- Like, share and repost anything you're mentioned in and comment on other pages.
- Post/add to story consistently.
- Focus on one social platform that works best for you.
- Reply to all comments.
- Have a diverse mix of content (ie. funny, informative, personal thoughts, recipes, product highlights)
- Use eye-catching images that tells a story.

Are you a new vendor at BFM? Remember to update your website and share information about your participation at BFM this upcoming season. You can also email vivian@bellevuefarmersmarket.org a couple of photos of you and/or your products for BFM to use to help promote your participation.
